Packed Skies Show Things To Come

This aerial traffic jam could be a sample of the next century when travel on the heavenly highways may be as hectic as on today's motorways. Instead, it's a photo montage giving an artist's impression of the variety of aircraft in the Canadian International Air Show at Toronto. Planes from five NATO countries thrilled crowds at Canada's largest air show.

Wreck Race Over?

ABERDEEN, Wash. (AP)—Unofficial reports, which were not confirmed by coast guard headquarters in Seattle, said Monday night the tug A. G. Hubble had a line aboard the freighter Seagate, which drifted ashore after winds had ripped her from the rocks of Sonora reef Sunday night.

The A. G. Hubble sped out of Grays Harbor at top speed Monday and headed north toward the Seagate.

Two tugs were churning south from Victoria, and another joined in the race from Seattle. The chase was taken as an indication here that the abandoned Seagate may be regarded as the salvage property of the first person to board her or to get a line aboard.

The Liberian-registry vessel piled her 4,400 tons onto the rocks of the reef Thursday.

Like giant smoke signals in the sky, these sleek RCAF jets leave their trails behind them as they show off the formation known as the Prince of Wales Feathers at the CNE air show.—(CPC)

'Ultimatum' Expires Mechanics Restore Original Demands

The striking automotive mechanics' union reverted from reduced demands to its original position yesterday after an "ultimatum to 10 Victoria dealers expired at 4 p.m."

After a union meeting last night, James Bellavance, chairman of the strike committee, said, "The union has done everything possible to get this strike over as quickly as possible."

Union demands, he said, were reduced to the "lowest possible bargaining offer" which the negotiating committee thought acceptable to members.

Wage demand was cut from $2 an hour retroactive to July 1, and $2.10 an hour on May 1, 1957, to $2 an hour on return to work and $2.05 on May 1, 1957.

ALL WOULD PAY

Instead of a full union shop, the union asked the Rand formula, where every mechanic would pay union dues but would not have to join the union.

The union also agreed to drop a cost-of-living clause which would mean a three-cent-an-hour boost, and ask for a 38-hour guarantee of work a week instead of 40 hours.

The union last night "fully endorsed" the negotiating committee's action, Mr. Bellavance said.

David Lawson, dealers' negotiating committee head, in a letter delivered to the union shortly before 4 p.m., said:

"In view of the friendly and harmonious basis on which recent negotiations have been conducted, we were indeed surprised to receive an ultimatum to the effect that unless your last proposal were accepted by 4 p.m. Monday, the union will revert to its original demands."

"Not only are we surprised, we are at a loss to understand what the union executive hopes to accomplish by issuing an ultimatum."

"It is of course your privilege to revert to a position which can only serve to widen the differences between us, differences which you must admit had been substantially narrowed as the result of recent meetings."

"We, too, have the right to revert to former proposals which were substantially less than those offered by the dealers prior to strike action."

"We have always indicated we are prepared to meet the union executive at any time in hope of working out a fair and reasonable settlement, but not on the terms of your ultimatum."

Mr. Bellavance said the union hadn't made an "absolute ultimatum."

No meetings with management are scheduled, he added.

One or Two More Seats

Bennett Hopeful, Cautious, Forecasts Narrow Gains

'Large Selection To Pick Cabinet'

Premier Bennett yesterday gave a cautious prediction of the outcome of the Sept. 19 provincial election. The government expects to be returned to power, he said.

"How many seats?" he was asked. "As many as now, one or two more, perhaps." "You're cautious, Mr. Premier," said a reporter. "One always must be cautious," he replied. Premier Bennett said he hoped the voters would give the government a good working majority. "A premier should have a large selection to pick a cabinet from," he said.

Independents, Too

Premier Requests Universal Support From All Parties

COURTENAY—Premier W. A. C. Bennett opened his Vancouver Island campaign tour here last night with an appeal for universal support—from CCF, Liberals, Conservatives or independents—"as long as you think the government's policies are good."

Planners Feel Ignored

Saanich council is wasting the time and effort of the Saanich Town Planning Commission because council consistently ignores its advice.

That was the substance of a complaint to council from the commission delivered last night.

In some cases, council had reasoned without even giving the commission an opportunity to express an opinion, the letter claimed.

Of 166 applications considered by the commission, council had concurred in 120, had not concurred in 13, partially concurred in eight, and 25 had been withdrawn.

MORE THAN BALANCE

These statistics do not "truly reflect the position," the commission's letter stated, since an important item turned down by the council may more than balance several minor items approved.

"The commission is justified in feeling," the letter read, "that in many cases the great amount of time and effort it puts into its work is largely wasted, especially when it is realized that it has continuous access to expert technical advice, which is ignored."

Basic cause of the commission's "apparent ineffectiveness" was blamed on poor liaison with the council.

He traced the Socred movement and recalled the bitter opposition it encountered in its first few weeks in power.

"But once in power," he said, "we started to develop this province."

The government's extension of the PGE both north and southward would alone be sufficient reason for returning his government to power, he said. This "brightest jewel in the crown of accomplishment" would make a profit of $1,500,000 this year.

"There's nothing secret about our methods," he declared. "This is the cleanest government the province ever had."

The premier examined the taxation situation, explained the sales tax, designed to support B.C. hospitals and which cost the average person $14.50 a year.

Big business, he said, pays 40 per cent of the hospital insurance cost and a good deal more comes from tourists, who also pay the sales tax.

"IN YOUR HANDS"

If his government had not started its term deep in the debt built up in other years, far greater tax relief could have been given before now.

"I have done my best in the past four years," he said. "I leave the judgment in your hands."

More than 800 persons heard the premier, Works Minister W. N. Chant and the Courtenay-Cornox candidate, Dan Campbell.

Senator Queries Security

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep., Wis.) demanded Monday that Defence Secretary Wilson "confirm or deny" published reports that 16 Russians have been allowed to inspect this country's secret air raid warning system which stretches across Canada.

Many details of the electronic Distant Early Warning system, known popularly as "DEW line," have been shrouded in military secrecy.

ARTICLE QUOTED

McCarthy made public a letter to Wilson in which he quoted Monday's issue of Newsweek magazine as saying: "16 Soviet experts have just been taken on a tour of the still secret DEW (Distant Early Warning) line stations which stretch across Canada." The article, he said, reported the tour was "at the invitation of Canadian officials—with Pentagon (U.S. defence department) approval."

McCarthy's letter termed it "utterly incredible" that such an inspection would be permitted.

London Again Centre For Suez Crisis Talks

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain and France Monday night held top-level discussions on their next move in the Suez crisis after reacting coldly to Egypt's call for an international conference.

The talks between the British and French premiers were scheduled to resume today. Speculation was that the governments, meanwhile, were consulting Washington.

Informed sources said it is still uncertain whether the British and French governments will decide to bring the crisis to the United Nations Security Council.

The UN move was one of three subjects reported discussed Monday night by Prime Minister Eden of Britain and Premier Mollet of France and their foreign ministers.

The other two matters were said to be circumstances in which they might consider it necessary to use force, and their attitude to employment by Egypt of French and British canal pilots.

FIRM ATTITUDE

Both countries were said to be determined to maintain a firm attitude in the dispute.

Monday's Egyptian offer, made from Cairo in messages to the United Nations secretary-general and all world governments except Israel, ruled out international control over the canal.

A British foreign office spokesman said the offer did not appear to offer a fresh basis for negotiations.

International control was the basis of the 18-power plan rejected Sunday by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Prime Minister Robert Menzies

of Australia, who went to Cairo at the head of a five-man mission to explain the plan, returned to London Monday night to report failure.

Menzies told reporters at the airport his colleagues were "unanimous" in regarding the 18-power plan as "fair and generous to Egypt" and one which "recognized Egypt's sovereignty."

Stoned to Death

Mexicans Burn 'Witches' To Purify Their Souls

ALFAYAYUCAN, Mexico (UPI)—Nearly two score persons were questioned by police yesterday about the weekend killing and burning of two women who were accused of being "witches and friends of Satan."

The women, Juana Cristina Trejo and Benita Sabina, were beaten to death and then burned in a macabre midnight ceremony atop a lonely hill outside this Hidalgo state town.

One of those held and questioned by police was Epigenio Trejo, husband of one of the victims.

Police said the villagers charged the two women were "vicious witches who entered into a pact with the devil" and that they had "put the evil eye and a variety of curses on many innocent people."

Witnesses said the villagers, both men and women, and many of them drunk, dragged the victims from their thatched-roof huts and beat them with stones and heavy sticks. Then they dragged the bodies to the top of the hill overlooking the town and built a bonfire.

For nearly an hour, witnesses said, the crowd performed "ritual dances" while they hacked the bodies with long-bladed machetes and tossed them into the fire "to purify their souls."

Thermal Barrier Cracked

NEW YORK (UPI)—The General Electric Company announced yesterday its engineers have made an electronic breakthrough of the "thermal barrier."

The company said it had emerged victorious from a long technical battle against the heat produced by high-speed aircraft, guided missiles and atomic reactors.

Through the use of ceramics, titanium and small lead pellets, engineers have built radios, transformers, motors and other electrical equipment that can withstand temperatures up to 1,500 degrees Fahrenheit and intense atomic radiation.

G-E said its new developments would bring the first nuclear-powered aircraft closer to reality by eliminating much of the weight required to shield atomic reactors.

Dr. C. G. Suits, G-E vice-president and director of research, said the findings would speed development of guided missiles, satellites and supersonic planes.

Riots in U.K.

Teen-Agers Craze By Rock-Roll Film

MANCHESTER, Eng. (Reuters)—Shrieking teen-agers tossed electric light bulbs from the balcony of a movie theatre Monday during a showing of the film "Rock Around the Clock" as city authorities demanded a police report on a teen-age riot caused by the same film on Sunday.

The latest "rock 'n' roll" disturbance flared up during an afternoon showing of the American movie when about 50 fans started a brawl, and tossed bulbs before being ejected by police and theatre attendants.

The showing was stopped during the disturbance, and later was continued with police remaining on duty inside the building.

Similar disturbances broke out in London recently during the film's screening. Manchester officials asked the police chief for full details of Sunday night's riot.

During that performance, gangs of teenage youths and their girl friends danced in the aisles, vaulted up on the stage and trained fire hoses on the manager when he tried to restore order.

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, crew members on the train Man. (BUP)—A fire-blackened diesel locomotive involved in a level crossing accident 11 miles east of Portage La Prairie yesterday crashed into the rear of a freight train last night as it was en route to Winnipeg for repairs.

The diesel, which apparently broke away from the engine that was pushing it, derailed a caboose and two freight cars of the eastbound freight train about 20 miles east of Portage La Prairie. No one was injured.

In the earlier crash, William Ronyk of St. Boniface, Man., was killed when the diesel, pulling the Canadian Pacific Railways' transcontinental "Canadian" smashed into his oil truck on the level crossing.

Ronyk, the father of five children, was killed instantly. Two

Garden Notes

Flavor Secret Lies in Picking

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Every year I am becoming more and more impressed with the heavy cropping and easy-going disposition of that excellent pear, Bartlett.

It is a fine dessert pear and none of that grittiness found so often in other varieties, and it is unsurpassed for canning or preserving. The tree seems to be singularly free from the usual run of diseases and pests.

OLD PEAR

Bartlett is quite an old pear. In Europe it is known as William's Bon Chretien and was first grown by John Stair, a schoolmaster at Aldermaston, England. From Stair, the pear passed into the hands of a nurseryman, Williams, who put it on the market under his own name Bartlett when it was introduced into this country.

As with most really good pear varieties, the real trick in getting the finest flavor and texture in a Bartlett pear lies in knowing when to pick it. Some of the old writers had quite a lot to say on this subject. Dr. Van Mons of Louvain, for instance, insisted that it was necessary to sit up all night to catch a Bartlett pear in exactly the right condition for eating. The late A. E. Bunyard, in his "Anatomy of Dessert," gives less arduous and more exact advice:

WATCH COLOR

"With Williams' Bon Chretien, it is necessary to watch the coloring of the fruit very closely. A slight fading of the green shows it is ready for gathering, and then a week or two in a cool cellar to bring it slowly to perfection."

The yellow will gradually grow stronger until finally only a few green dots are left, and the instant to seize is just when each dot has a faint aureole of green around it. At that moment, the pear is at its peak of flavor. A few days too early, and it is "sleepy" and flavorless; a few days too late, and the fruit has gone soft."

HUGE TREE

The pear in its natural state makes an enormous great tree, far too big for the average city garden, but it is possible today to buy whatever variety you desire grafted on to quince roots. This dwarfs the tree, keeping it within bounds of even the smallest garden, and bringing the tree into bearing at a very early age. A dwarfed Bartlett would cost around $3 and if planted this fall, would probably start bearing in September, 1958. Bartlett is one of the few pears which is self-sufficient and does not require a husband, so is an ideal choice where there is only room for one tree. However, even in such self-fertile kinds, I have an idea that you get a better crop when the tree is given a mate, which is in blossom at the same time. A good choice of a husband for Bartlett would be Dr. Jules Guyot.

Storing Carrots—(J.B. Sidney). The best way to store carrots is in deep boxes filled with dry sand or soil. Under no circumstances should the soil or sand be dampened.

The carrots are dug after the foliage has died down, and should be lifted with great care to avoid puncturing the skins. Once the crop is lifted, go over the carrots selecting only perfectly sound roots for storage, setting aside any damaged specimens for immediate use. Place an inch of sand in the bottom of the box and lay the carrots horizontally on this. Cover with a thin layer of sand, then another layer of carrots, and so on. Keep the box in a dry, frostproof place.

Guards Keep Control

Seven Negroes Enroll As Whites Fling Insults

STURGIS, Ky. (AP)—Seven Negro students attended class at Sturgis High School Monday but only about 50 of the 310 white students enrolled showed up.

Outside, a crowd of townspeople estimated from 600 to 1,000 milled around and occasionally shouted, "niggers come out." Forty armed state police and Kentucky national guardsmen patrolled the area.

There was no violence. But the crowd cheered lustily when about 15 white students reported to school and then departed.

The seven Negroes arrived 90 minutes before classes were to start. A crowd already was forming but there was no demonstration.

But, at nearby Clay, a crowd of about 100 men turned away a Negro mother, Mrs. James Gordon, and her two children, James 10, and Teresa, 8, according to know yet whether guardsmen Maj.-Gen. J. J. B. Williams, adjutant-general of the Kentucky National Guard.

WANT PROTECTION

Rev. Frank Griffey who said he was acting as spokesman for Mrs. Gordon, told AP correspondent George Hackett the children would "not return until they have the same protection that the Negroes now have in Sturgis."

Salt Spring Elects Six

GANGES—The people of Salt Spring Island chose their six representatives for the Lady Minto hospital board last night—three of them by acclamation.

They are: Mrs. Warren Hastings, long-time chairman of the board, W. M. Mouat, Mrs. Alec McManus, Sidney Quinton, Mrs. Austin Wells and H. C. Giegerich. Already chosen at other island points were: Mrs. A. E. Scoones, Gallano; Mrs. M. Wilson, Pender; Benjamin Gardner, Mayne. Saturna has not yet named a representative.

something new in pension planning

The Multiple Pension Trust Fund is a new service offered by the Pension Division of Montreal Trust Company.

Through this medium small pension funds have the option of pooling their investments. In this way they are able to obtain diversification, security and higher yields normally available only to the larger funds.

At the same time, the Plan will enjoy the flexibility and ease of administration offered through an individual plan.

Full details will be supplied upon request. A telephone call to any of our offices will receive immediate attention.

Dormant Track Issue Comes to Life Again

Saanich Reminder

Horse Racing Ban May Snag Attempt

A renewed attempt to establish a race track in the Elk Lake-Beaver Lake park area yesterday brought a reminder from the Saanich council that a by-law prohibits horse racing in Saanich.

Reeve Arthur Ash told council that as he had promised in his election campaign, he was still in favor of a plebiscite on racing; but not until two complicating factors had been settled. These are: litigation pending between Saanich and Victoria over taxes on the park land; a petition by the Elk Lake Ratepayers' Association to have the park taken over by the Capital Improvement District Commission.

Sacred Meeting Ends by Candlelight

Candles had to be lit for part of a meeting when a fallen power pole cut electrical service to East Sooke institute hall, where Esquimalt Social Credit candidate H. J. Bruch was speaking Saturday.

He had first said the Social Credit government had taken the people of B.C. "from the dark past and has shed a new light on them, giving them a much brighter future."

Mr. Bruch scored Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan for saying here that the government has electrified 19,500 farm homes while the Saskatchewan government has electrified 40,000 farm homes.

He pointed out B.C. has 26,406 occupied farm homes while Saskatchewan has 112,013, and said: "This... is typical of the leaders and most of the candidates of the CCF party."

Anglican Charges Denounced

KINGSTON, Ont. (CPI) — Rev. Ernest E. Long, secretary of the general council of the United Church of Canada, said Monday he is "astounded" at Anglican charges that the United Church has not co-operated in efforts to unify the two churches.

In a statement released in Toronto in answer to the charges, Dr. Long said the United Church has "fought in good faith to work in co-operation with the various bishops of the Anglican Church as well as with other communions, especially in new frontier and suburban areas."

This, the statement says, is "especially true" in Archbishop Philip Carrington's area.

Most Rev. Carrington, Archbishop of Quebec and acting Primate of the Anglican Church of Canada, said Saturday the United Church has told Anglican ministers to stay out of some areas it has selected for expansion.

Anglican leaders, nonetheless, reiterated here Monday their desire for church reunion.

Camp Sites

Saanich council last night decided to ask the provincial forest service to investigate the possibility of developing a portion of Beaver Lake-Elk Lake park as a camp site.

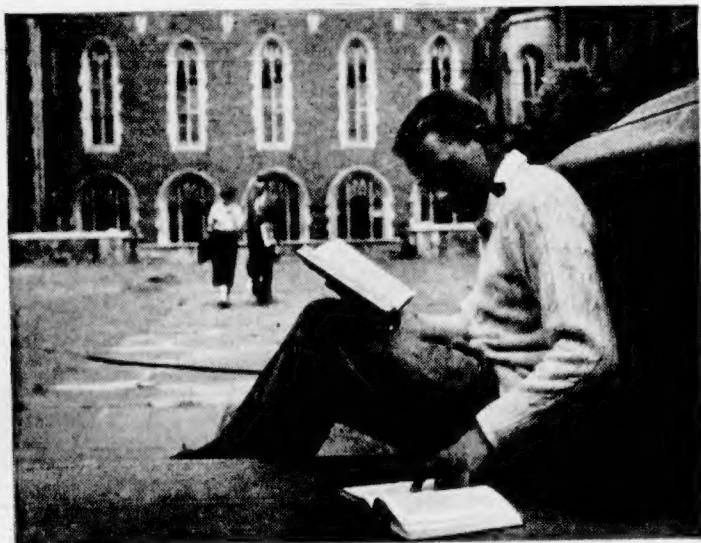

Coun. Ronald Grant said such a camp site would enhance the value of the park and encourage visitors to remain on the Saanich peninsula.

Bus Girls Furious At Doctor

KILMARNOCK, Scotland (CPI)—Two hundred girl bus conductors here were about their work Monday blushing and angry—for the town's medical officer reported they are responsible for more illegitimate babies than any other group of local women.

Dr. Bryce Nisbet is worried about the moral welfare of the girls who work on buses, especially at night. The girls are demanding an apology. One said: "Passengers are making jokes about our love life. What boy will want to go out with us after this?"

Lack of Technicians Blamed on Schools

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (CPI)—Educationists and industrialists agreed here Monday that Canadian high schools must bear a large part of the blame for lack of technical manpower to meet industrial requirements of the future.

The nation's secondary school program was criticized by university and business spokesmen during discussion on sessions of the national engineering manpower conference here for sending "inadequately equipped graduates" to university, where 30 per cent fail their freshman year.

Proposed solution by a college spokesman would establish a segregated system of education catering to the brighter students while an industrial suggestion would return "hard work" to the curriculum.

Dr. Eugene Forsey of Ottawa, director of research for the Canadian Labor Congress, said he did not believe Canada was receiving full value for the money spent in high schools.

Inco Metals at Work in Canada

8 out of 10 automobile radiators on Canadian cars are made from INCO COPPER

Automobile radiators are made almost entirely of copper. And on Canadian cars, it's almost always Inco copper. Here's how this copper helps make jobs for thousands of Canadians:

1. To produce copper, Inco ore is mined, milled, smelted and refined by Canadian workmen. About 18,000 people work for Inco in Canada.
2. Refined copper is sold to Canadian companies for the manufacture of copper tube, sheet, strip, rod and wire. These companies employ several thousand men and women.

3. The copper strip goes to Canadian automobile radiator manufacturers where it is formed into tube for the production of radiators. More people are employed here.
4. Along the assembly lines of the automobile companies, Canadian workmen install these radiators on cars and trucks.

Inco produces over 250,000,000 pounds of copper a year. And more than half of this copper is used by Canadian industries.

The Canal Links Oceans

IT is difficult to see how anything short of a full guarantee that the Suez Canal will be kept open on even terms to the shipping of all nations can be accepted in the Egyptian crisis. The failures of the general conference and now of negotiations advanced under Mr. Robert Menzies have come primarily from President Nasser's attitude that the canal must be under full Egyptian control. That stand, however, overlooks the inception of the canal, the international character of its primary function, and indeed the contracts long ago entered into by Egypt with the people who put up the money. Egyptian autonomy over its own affairs is not in issue when the matter is understood.

One would only have to imagine that some aggressive force, like the Nazi panzer divisions in the last war, were at the gates of Egypt, to appreciate the implications of a Suez Canal in a "nationalized" state. Who would defend it? Egypt was powerless before the Nazi onslaught, and Cairo stood wide open to the hand of the invader before the Allies closed in. In peace—or at war, the Suez Canal links two of the leading oceans of the world, and for all time will be the main sea route between Europe and Asia. That much is geography. Consider what would happen for instance if Italy were suddenly to declare that the Mediterranean was a closed sea. Mussolini did so declare, but he did not make it stick. Nor can Egypt seal off a sea route.

In spite of the seriousness of the present impasse, there is reason to believe that good sense must in the end prevail. The free world has a practical riposte that Col. Nasser does not seem to have remembered. If international agreements under the seal of Egypt are not going to be honored, there are a good many nations which would take due account of that and govern themselves accordingly. In the immediate case, Egypt herself would suffer from any cavalier stand taken by her on this section of the world's trade; not alone in loss of faith but also concretely in the higher cost of imported and exported goods. It is known that Egypt wants outside assistance with her problems, and she has many. This is a poor way, when all has been said, of seeking it.

East-West Co-operation

FROM promises made at Nansaimo by Mr. Alexander Ishkov, Russian minister of fisheries, it would appear that the exchange of visits between Canada and the U.S.S.R. may become productive of something more tangible than formal cordiality and pleasantries. Here is an opportunity for "co-existence" in the fullest sense which the two nations can explore to mutual advantage, and in which, as Mr. Ishkov was the first to point out, the element of rivalry need not intrude.

The objective of joint research—knowledge on which to practice conservation of a vital source of food—is one which Canada and Russia can pursue on the friendliest terms regardless of any differences which may exist politically. There is no cause to doubt the sincerity of the Soviet minister's assurance of practical assistance to the Canadian department of fisheries in ocean studies of the North Pacific for the purpose, as he put it, of filling in blank spaces on the fisheries map representing stretches of ocean which Canadian scientists have not yet been able to plumb and catalogue. There may be other motives behind Mr.

Ishkov's offer of assistance but one would have to be overly suspicious to see in it anything but concern for the preservation and development of a world food supply.

Whatever the international political situation may be, there are fields in which the Western and Soviet worlds can learn from one another without endangering the security of either; and fishery is a good example. Much is known about the breeding and migratory habits of food fish, but much more remains a mystery to be probed only by patient and costly research which in the case of the North Pacific might take more than a lifetime for Canada to do alone. The resources of the United States are engaged in this pursuit also, but the pooling of information by Russia and North America can be of immeasurable assistance to both sides.

The exchanges of visits should be encouraged in every way possible. Canada's minister of fisheries, Mr. Sinclair, began them at the invitation of the Soviet government, and the knowledgeable Mr. Ishkov in returning the visit has added to the feeling of cordiality and co-operation thus engendered.

Worth Considered Study

ON every count the friendlier contact and more open approaches between Victoria and Saanich are to be welcomed. The two areas are complementary, and there is no reason why they should have any lasting municipal differences between them. It is an affair of give and take on both sides. If now, without committing either municipality to action, the City and Saanich begin a joint study of amalgamation that would be a good thing. There remains no question that Greater Victoria as a whole is headed for a population considerably larger than at present, and that such physical expansion will inevitably bring fresh problems to each of the four municipalities composing the inner areas.

Not all of these problems will be held in common. The City is 90 per cent improved, with most of its permanent plant in place. The outlying municipalities are in different stages of their development. Saanich, with a large area, has a great deal yet to do; as it is beginning to find with a progressive start on its sewerage connections. But some things will be shared in common, whether that is recognized and faced, or left to drift until the pressure of population forces inevitable changes. Traffic knows no municipal borders. Schooling is for all. Police and fire protection must be co-ordinated if area-wide service is to be given.

Up to the present, and perhaps naturally so, the neglect of a thorough-going study of these things has rested in good part on the reluctance of the various municipalities to take any step which would merge their debts. But amalgamation is not new in Canada. There exists a full and growing body of example in corporate union under the proper conditions and terms. The large-scale example at the moment is Metropolitan Toronto, after the fusion of its outfield; still with plenty of problems, but mastering them. Greater Victoria's position is not on such a wide plane, but no community can expand without growing pains, and it is only common sense to size up the problem from all its angles. Three years spent on a quiet study of the case might find Victoria and Saanich even closer together than they are today.

Interpreting the News

Economic Pressure on Finns

By JOHN EYRE HANLIN

North American Newspaper Alliance

HELSINKI—In spite of Finland's foreign policy on strict neutrality, this little nation is being sucked more and more into the Soviet orbit as a result of its political isolation and geographical location.

Finland today is a prime example of the double blow which Moscow is delivering to the Nordic lands. It wishes to remain Western in character. And yet, while the Soviet Union is outwardly adhering to the terms of a "friendship and mutual assistance" pact, it is moving relentlessly to destroy the little nation economically and politically from the inside.

As in Sweden, the Russians are carrying on a fantastic program of espionage within the little country's borders. Most of the Finns engaged in this work live in the vicinity of the Russian border and frequently have ties in Russia. The Russians use them primarily to operate an underground railway in and out of Finland. Should war come, they would serve as saboteurs and fifth-columnists.

Recent court cases in Finland reveal these tactics in the border areas serve the Russians more for the financial gain involved than for ideological reasons. The Russians even sign them to "spy contracts" and then can black mail them into a lifetime of Communist servitude. If the Finns change their mind, the Russians in Helsinki merely mail the "contracts" to the Finland police.

Court cases also reveal that the Russians have sketched and photographed many factories, telephone exchanges, railway stations and junctions, army installations, fortifications, roads and bridges in preparation for a future invasion.

Meanwhile, the Communists in the labor unions are extremely active in creating unrest and discord. As in Denmark, Sweden, Norway and Iceland, the Communist strategy is to drive costs up to the point where Finland will not be able to compete on the free world's trade markets. Then it will have to adjust its trade to that of its giant Communist neighbor. Communist-inspired rioting occurred this year in all Finland's chief industrial towns.

The strike, the first nationwide one here in 17 years, turned the capital into a dead city. The Communists only allow Communist newspapers to be published during these Nordic strikes. The only trains which ran were those going into Russia. Even the farmers, customs men and post office employees joined the strike.

Ironically, the Russians win no matter how the strikes come out. Satellite newspapers contain box scores of the number of hours lost in Scandinavian labor unrest. If the workers lose, they are embittered and prone to move closer to Communism. If the workers win, they weaken the nation's foreign trade position in the free world. No matter who wins, the nation suffers a heavy economic blow and a lowering of its standard of living.

Poland also is active in Finland. Polish trade with its Nordic neighbor has almost doubled since 1949. The Polish trade officials will export their high-priced coal to Finland because the Finns will not be in a foreign trade position to buy it cheaper elsewhere. The Finns also are buying maize, potatoes and machinery. The Poles are trying to sell automobiles and trucks in Finland, but the Finns are refusing them because of their inferior quality.

"After all, it's only been a couple of years since the Supreme Court decision"

On the Record

Revolt of The Hatless

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

WELL, I see by the papers that Nina Ponomareva, the Soviet Union's discus thrower, got herself arrested in London, where a Soviet Olympic track team was enjoying a sports "exchange," for shoplifting five hats from a cheap chain store.

Although usually on the side of law and order, my sympathy for Nina is such that I would gladly pay for the hats and her fine, too. For it is a pleasure to know that Nina is really a woman, with something more in her heart and head than the desire to have a two-pound 3½-ounce disc 187 feet two inches in order to beat the world record held by another Russian woman.

Nina is obviously an awkward shoplifter. First, she isn't built for the role. A woman weighing 210 pounds, all of them a bulk of bulging muscles, is obviously, noticeable. Heaving discs 175 feet 11 inches (which is her record) isn't likely to make one light-fingered. I saw a photograph of her in action some time ago and it was a formidable sight.

Nina is 27 years old and a teacher of physical culture. I suspect that she has often asked herself, "Why can't I be like other girls?" Maybe what she'd really like to be is a prima ballerina. In Russia glamour is largely confined to dancers and actresses. Men seldom make passes at girls who weigh 210 pounds and are muscled like a heavyweight prizefighter. Yet a shy and loving heart probably beats beneath that tremendous diaphragm. But in the Soviet Union you darn well do well what you can for the glory of the Soviet state and the new Soviet woman.

As far as I could observe in Russia some months ago, the new Soviet woman is pretty much like the old Russian woman in that she does the hardest and most menial work, such as cleaning the streets and shoveling manure out of collectivized cow barns. Such exercise makes for the body strong but not the body beautiful. Soviet men (even more than the Soviet state today) continue to frown on make-up or any of the other allurements resorted to by women since 7000 B.C. One seldom sees a woman wearing anything on her head except a shawl.

A London shop dealing in "utility" wear is not exactly the place any woman would choose to buy or steal a hat. All five that Nina took were ticketed at less than $1 apiece. The news reports failed to describe them, which is disappointing. What made them irresistible to the mighty discus thrower?

Is not a revolt recorded here? A revolt in favor of private enterprise, which shoplifting, though a very low form of it, certainly is? A revolt against being a Soviet woman, instead of just a woman, like other women everywhere, from Paris to Lahore? A revolt against joyless life through strength? A revolt against being a discus throwing female unadorned by anything but medals?

Heaven knows what will happen to Nina for having disgraced the Soviet Union abroad. But rather than punish Nina the Soviet authorities had better explore the yearnings of Russia's silent women—discus throwers or whatever.

Reports from Ottawa

THREE magical letters are causing breathless interest to the teacup readers of economics, the men who try to foretell the future of the contents of the present.

The letters are G, N and P.

Together they read GNP, meaning Gross National Product. That is simply the total value of everything we produce or do for others and for which we get paid.

So the GNP reflects among other things how much money we get for our individual labors, how much we have to pay for the things we buy, and how much we have to pay in taxes. It also has a big effect on the government's ability to reduce tax rates, because the higher the GNP the more money the government collects at any given tax rate.

When Finance Minister Harris brought down his budget March 29, he based all his calculations on a guess that we would have a GNP of $28,000,000,000 this year.

But the GNP is showing no signs of staying in reasonable agreement with Harris' guess. In the first three months of this year we were producing at a rate of $28,330,000,000. Since then the rate has continued to rise. Second quarter figures will be out in mid-month, and are expected to be 2 per cent or more higher than in the first quarter.

At that rate of quarterly increase, the GNP is likely to be about $29,000,000,000 for the year—assuming, of course, that the economy hits no snags in the last half of 1956. As it's already September, with the signs pointing to inflation rather than deflation, $29,000,000,000 may be already in the bag.

Now what do these portents mean to the economic teacup readers?

In the first place, a GNP of $26,500,000,000 last year yielded government revenues of about $4,400,000,000. But many corporations were paying taxes on the basis of depressed earnings in 1954, when the GNP was only $24,000,000,000. Thus a substantial part of the government's current heavy cash receipts represents corporations making up the difference between what they actually paid last year, and what they owe as a result of high 1955 earnings. They'll be doing the same thing next year, to an even greater degree than they are now.

As Harris forecast a $113,000,000 surplus this year on the basis of a GNP of $28,000,000, it is obvious that a GNP of $29,000,000,000 will boost his revenues substantially this year as well as next. So he may well end the year with a surplus of $300,000,000 or more, which he can use to cut taxes if he dares risk the inflationary effect of such action.

However, government fiscal planning is based not only on what happened the previous year, but more importantly on what is likely to happen in the new year. So if the boom continues, the GNP might well hit $31,500,000,000 next year. At the present rates of taxation and spending that would produce a surplus moving well along toward the billion-dollar mark. Never before has a Canadian government been in prospect of being burdened by such an unseemly surplus.

Whether, in the light of these circumstances and the imminence of an election, the government will grant tax relief next spring in spite of inflationary pressures will be one of the most titillating topics in the months ahead.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

THERE has been considerable consternation in the heavily-populated summer resort area of the great Georgian Bay since a woman, bitten by the rattlesnake native to that region, the Massasauga, has died. This small, 30-inch, thick and extremely venomous serpent is not a numerous species in most of its range, though on parts of the Bruce Peninsula and in certain islands on the Georgian Bay it is found in fairly dense communities. What makes it a problem to the cottagers and resorts is this very sporadic nature of the little beast. You won't see any for 10 years; and then all of sudden you get two or three on your cottage doorstep. Some of the aroused cottagers have suggested that some sort of war on rattlers be scientifically instituted. It would be a hopeless task.

But Levi Simon, an Ojibway, the greatest paddle and oar maker for 200 miles of the shore, has a suggestion to offer.

"On the Christian Island," he says, "which is an ancient Indian reservation, there were a great many rattlesnakes, their name being Mad-waywed—keenabig. The Indian residents could not exterminate them, though they killed them and hunted them out. Among the animals imported to the island for the Indian farmers were hogs, a considerable number of which were permitted to stray and in due time became wild or semi-wild. In the course of time these wild hogs went back in their breeding, and became what they call razor-backs; lean, high-headed, long-legged pigs that had little meat on them and were hardly worth the killing. They grew slab-sided and took on the general shape of a sunfish. And they were surly and vicious.

"But one great service they rendered the island. They cleaned up all snakes, including the rattlers. There is no doubt about it. They were seen any number of times in the act of destroying a rattler, making a great squealing and jumping and plunging as they struck at the snake with their hooves. Then they ate the snake with apparent relish.

"My suggestion is the summer cottagers is this. That they keep a pig instead of a dog for a pet around the cottage."

Levi Simon is a humorous man, and it is a little hard to tell, no matter how acutely you watch his eyes, when he is joking and when he is serious. Many things about us summer cottagers amuse and delight the Ojibway, and it could be the thought of a thousand hogs wandering familiarly about our pretty summer resorts is just the thing to entertain the imagination of a Redman surveying his own lost domain. But I don't know. It is a well-established fact that pigs and snakes cannot co-exist. And areas might well be cleared of rattlers if a colony of footloose porkers were free to roam their part of the year, perhaps before and after the full summer season.

Atoms at Peace

Pinhead Power

By TOM MARGERISON

TEN years ago the possibility of building great power stations driven by atomic energy seemed very remote. Yet next month the first large-scale atomic power station in the world will go into operation at Calder Hall on the fringe of the beautiful Lake District in northwest England. Calder Hall, which is now undergoing preliminary tests, will supply electricity to the national grid system at about the same cost as a coal-fired station.

Atomic power is now a reality both scientifically and economically. Calder Hall is only the first in a large program of atomic power station construction in Britain. Two more stations are already being built and sites have been chosen for a further two. In all about 16 atomic power stations are included in the present program. A tenth of the electricity consumed in Britain will be generated by atomic power in 1966 and probably nearly a half by 1975.

The whole of this British atomic energy industry has been built up within only 10 years. In April, 1946, builders moved into a disused RAF station near Harwell and started work on converting it into laboratories and workshops. That was the start of the Atomic Energy Research Establishment, which under the direction of Sir John Cockcroft has been responsible for the fundamental research work which made the atomic power program possible.

About the same time a group of a dozen men and women met in a hut in a disused shell-filling factory at Risley, in Lancashire. Among the group was Sir Christopher (then Mr.) Hinton, who from these small beginnings built up the great production division which has been responsible for designing and working the atomic factories.

Risley also provided the teams which designed the Calder Hall power station and the special types of nuclear furnace used for making atom explosives and radioisotopes.

From these small beginnings in 1946 the atomic energy industry grew with amazing rapidity. By the autumn the first small nuclear furnace was started at Harwell and was completed and began working in August, 1947. In July, 1948, the larger Bepo was finished and started work. Although Bepo was never intended as a power-producing nuclear furnace, it was not long before some of the heat was used to warm laboratories and offices at Harwell.

These two nuclear furnaces made it possible to start the long series of experiments on improvements in design, on the behavior of materials subjected to atomic rays, on methods of control, and so on.

In the meantime work at Risley was progressing on the design of the atomic factories. The building of these factories was one of the largest engineering jobs undertaken in Britain since the end of the war. The problems encountered were quite unlike those found in any other industrial process, because in much of the plant the materials being handled were highly radioactive. All operations on these highly radioactive substances have to be carried out by remote control. The factory in its final form was surrounded by a thick concrete shell and so arranged that it could be worked entirely from outside the shell. The parts inside the shell had to be designed so that they would never require attention or replacement.

The problem was made much more difficult by the fact that some of the chemicals which the factories were to produce were not available for small-scale trials. The factory which processes the used fuel from nuclear furnaces to extract plutonium was designed and built at a time when the chemists had only enough plutonium to cover a pin's head with which to do their experiments.

Now that, with the building of Calder Hall, the first stage in exploiting nuclear power has been successfully achieved, Harwell and Risley are turning to more advanced types of nuclear furnace which may eventually lead to cheaper atom power. The largest of these projects is the "breeder" furnace which is being built at Dounreay in the north of Scotland. This type of nuclear furnace has the valuable property of converting inert uranium into atomic fuel to such an extent that it produces more fuel than it burns.

Another important project, which is still being worked on at Harwell, is that of building nuclear furnaces to work on atomic fuel made from thorium instead of uranium. Thorium is more common and cheaper than uranium and should be an important source of power in the future.

Today there are British firms preparing to supply complete atom power stations or small water-cooled nuclear furnaces for scientific and medical applications. Ten years ago such a statement would have read like an extract from a science fiction novel. Ten years hence, who knows what the position will be?

The Old Guard

Your esteemed correspondent John Kenny advocates a Canadian Memorial Day in June for our fallen dead to synchronize with America's commemoration. True, our American cousins eventually marched with the armies of Britain and her overseas realms; but Canada is surely more strongly linked with the Motherland, inasmuch as her armies stood with the Homelander from the very beginning.

Canada is conjoined with Britain in the solemn observance of Poppy Day and the Day of Remembrance; every Nov. 11 at 11 hours, she foregathers in spirit with Britons everywhere in the hush of the two minutes' silence as it becomes a memory-moment anchorage for a transcendent lesson with time's passing.

Further, two years after the cease-fire of 1918, on Nov. 11, the Unknown Warrior was buried among his peers in Westminster Abbey—a British Tommy who once trod the long, long trail with Bert, Alf and Ole Bill ("Star of Mons") in Bainsfather's plum and apple war, an amalgam of mud, lice and gas, boredom, hectic and frightening action. Wars of course have been greatly improved since then!

Your correspondent deprecates "the dislocation of business affairs" due to Remembrance Day; a tribute of lordly fellowship with those who in their own little moment of history saved the Island Kingdom and the world at large from the irreparable disaster of a ruthless tyranny.

It is apposite here to quote the inscription on a bronze plaque of a Naga crossroads village along the Imphal road among the Burmese rice paddies—a war memorial to the 2nd British Division:

"When you go home
Tell them of us and say
For their tomorrow
We gave our all today."

And we who wear our names a little longer to go by their courtesy, I cannot speak for the New Guard—veterans of the later war—but venture so to do for the Old Guard, ever lessening due to time's effluxion. They would count it a near betrayal of their former comrades-in-arms. With due respect to Mr. Kenny, a Memorial Day in June for Canada will never supplant a Poppy and Remembrance Day in November, rain or shine, weather or no.

Should Withdraw

Although it is to be expected that the voters of Esquimalt will avail themselves of their unusual opportunity and elect Dr. Brock Chisholm on Sept. 19, I suggest that the other candidates in this riding should withdraw in favor of this outstanding Canadian.

Dr. Chisholm's thinking is far above party politics. Acclamation for a man of his calibre would be a fitting way of returning the compliment he has paid us by consenting to serve in our legislature.

It would also be a refreshing indication that there is at least one politically mature constituency in our province.

Access to Beach

While we all appreciate tremendously the improvements on Dallas road waterfront, several people are concerned over the path to the beach off Cook street.

Hitherto this path has been a long, gradual slope, where people could wheel their babies down to the beach, where the old and crippled could slowly make the grade; now, I understand, there are to be steps half-way down. It is quite impossible to wheel baby carriages down the steps, and if left half-way on the ramp, would soon clutter it up. It is also quite impossible for elderly people, some of them arthritic, to negotiate steps, but they can make a gradual slope, and like to get down to the water.

As this is the only access to the beach from Cook street area, we hope that the powers that be will give this project the consideration it deserves. I know that many people will appreciate it.

Housing Bonus

If the people of B.C. are gullible enough to re-elect the Bennett government I shall be looking forward to the $28 reduction on my small home, a stone's throw from the hallowed chamber. First, though, I'd like a refund of the $20 they slapped on this year's taxes, not while they are in a generous mood spending millions building bridges and roads. I could do with a couple of bags of cement to finish the pathway around my home, which I intended using the $20 for. In that way they will be helping one pensioner they blow they take such care of.

Why Isn't Pfeifer On All Star Teams?

Defense backs in the Big Four football league say Al Pfeifer of Toronto Argos is the toughest man to cover. Statistics prove that Pfeifer gained more yards from forward passes than any player in the Eastern league last year. But when the vote for the star performers of 1955 was taken, Al Pfeifer didn't get one vote. Why? Jim Hunt, sports writer of the Toronto Daily Star says Pfeifer is overlooked because of his effortless manner of play. "He has to make pass catching look harder."

HENRY LEACOCK

Old Soldier Dies

He Faked His Age To Go to War at 68

Henry William Leacock, a veteran of three wars who was believed to be the oldest active Canadian soldier to go overseas in the Second World War, died here Sunday. He was 82.

Mr. Leacock made national headlines in 1935 when he was one of the men who shot it out with three Manitoba desperadoes at Banff. Two of the men who had killed police officers were slain at the scene and the third died later in hospital.

JOINED UP AT 16

A resident of Victoria for 15 years at 3171 Carroll, Mr. Leacock was born in London and at 16 joined the Honourable Artillery Company, leaving it 10 years later as a sergeant-major in the City of London Imperial Volunteers to fight in the Boer War. He wore the Queen's South Africa Medal with three bars.

He served in France in the First World War, ending the war as regimental sergeant-major of the First Brigade, Canadian Field Artillery. He was later promoted to lieutenant.

His true age was not found out until he was in England two years later, when he was 68, and he was sent back to Canada as an instructor.

A member of the Canadian Corps of Commissioners here for more than 10 years, Mr. Leacock was also a freeman of the city of London.

He is survived by four sons, Leonard, of Calgary; Ernest in England; Fred and Leslie in Victoria; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday, September 22, at the funeral home of Mr. Squire.

New Canadian Chess Winner

A 27-year-old native of Yugoslavia who has been working at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory during the summer has been named B.C. correspondence chess champion for the past year.

He is Eugene Butkov, 141 Robertson, who defeated J. M. Taylor of Victoria, many times provincial champion. Four other ex-winners and several other players in the competition arranged annually by the B.C. Correspondence Chess Club.

Mr. Butkov came to Canada in 1952 when the student body at the University of British Columbia awarded him a scholarship. Since then, he has won a gold medal in engineering and a master of arts in mathematics, and three consecutive Vancouver city chess championships.

He has also won National Research Council scholarships for three consecutive years, and will use them for doctorate studies in theoretical physics at McGill University.

B.C. Election Roundup

House Overhaul Demanded

Elections should be held at definite intervals and not at the whim of the premier, Skeena CCF candidate Frank Howard said at a recent meeting in Cedarville, near Terrace.

Calling for a complete overhaul of provincial legislative procedure, Mr. Howard offered several suggestions.

He said MLAs should be free to follow their consciences rather than party lines when voting and that legislative standing orders should be revised to "bring decency back to parliament."

People of B.C. are losing millions of dollars under the present forest management—license system, says Esquimalt Liberal candidate George Whittaker.

Speaking in Sooke, Mr. Whittaker charged "discrimination" in the issuing of licenses and termed the government "short boys for the big corporations."

Victoria CCF candidates have charged that the government intends to raise the $28 property tax rebate from "the people of low incomes, who can least afford it."

In a press release, candidates William Caird, May Campbell and Neil Hindle noted that Premier Bennett has "made further concessions in big business by his promise of no tax on corporations."

They said the $28 rebate is "obviously election bribery, and rank discrimination against the non-property owner."

RICHMOND—Speaker Tom Irwin says the people of B.C. are not in debt.

He told a Social Credit meeting here that "you are not in debt unless someone can take something from you," and said the debt is against the government, not the people.

PORT ALBERNI—Claiming that Social Credit candidate William Carr is using "political blackmail" tactics, John Squire, CCF member in the last legislature, issued a formal protest Monday.

On his campaign tour of the west coast of the Island, Mr. Squire said, Mr. Carr has been telling voters that if a Social Credit government is not elected, needed public works will not be carried out.

"To me this is nothing short of political blackmail," said Mr. Squire.

the salad that goes to school

Time was when school lunch was a mother's despair.

But today she can make health-laden lunches with all of the good things to eat that build young Canadians.

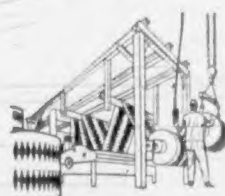

Waxed paper, the wrapping that keeps more kinds of food clean, fresh and tasteful, is one modern marvel that makes this possible. And not only school-children, but busy grown-ups too, in offices, shops and factories across the land, are learning how paper products help lock meal-table goodness in lunches.

With its new $4,500,000 paper converting plant at Richmond, B.C., Crown Zellerbach is keeping pace with the growing demand by Canadian families for waxed paper, for this versatile paper product will be the largest single item manufactured by this division.

Our other specially-treated papers, such as breadwrap, lockerwrap and butcherwrap, also contribute to better nutrition in a thousand different ways... protecting groceries, bringing meats into the home in clinical cleanliness, preserving perishables.

The waxed paper products of Crown Zellerbach, a paper-maker in Western Canada since 1917, help ensure pure food for Canadians... an important contribution to better living.

Crown Zellerbach paper helps the baking industry in its contribution to fresher, cleaner food for Canadians. Millions of loaves of bread sold in Western Canada come in breadwrap manufactured at our Richmond plant where machines print, wax, and cut enough paper for 20,000 loaves every hour.

Brown Boveri (Canada) Limited and Gordon Russell Limited, Augment Engineering Service

Mr. R. T. Mactavish, M.E.I.C., of Brown Boveri (Canada) Limited, will join the organization of Gordon Russell Limited under an arrangement that will augment Engineering and Sales Services of "Brown Boveri Products" to B.C. clients.

The long-standing relationship between Brown Boveri (Canada) Limited and Gordon Russell Limited will continue as in the past.

Mr. Mactavish, a native of Cumberland, England, is a graduate of Faraday House Electrical Engineering College and Oxford University. He served with the Royal Corps of Signals during World War II.

Mr. Mactavish has been with the Brown Boveri organization for the past three years, during which time he received training in the Company's factories in Switzerland and Canada, and latterly served as a sales engineer at Head Office in Montreal.

Combine Appeal Today

Appeal of two companies against a conviction of illegal price fixing will begin today at the 11 a.m. opening of the fall session of the B.C. Court of Appeal.

The appeal of Crown Zellerbach Corp. and Bartam Paper Co. commenced at the sittings of the court.

The whole of next week has been reserved for the hearing by five judges of the appeal of two Vancouver men sentenced to jail for the murder of Vancouver Constable Gordon Sinclair last Dec. 7.

Joe Goddon and James Carey will appear here appealing on points of law and fact.

Fatal Accident Spurs Demand For Reduction of Speed Limit

Residents along Royal Oak avenue, where a 73-year-old Port Angeles woman was killed in a traffic accident Saturday, are anxious to have a 30 mile an hour speed limit introduced there.

Saanich Deputy Police Chief Bert Pearson said yesterday it was "inevitable" they will get their wish.

Meanwhile, an inquest was set for 11 a.m. Wednesday at McCall Bros. funeral home into the death of Mrs. Ida Goerg.

She was killed in the fourth traffic fatality in Saanich in three weeks when the car in which she was a passenger was hit by another automobile.

Funeral services will be held in Port Angeles after the inquest. Mrs. Goerg leaves three daughters and a son in the U.S.

A petition was circulated some time ago to have the 50 mile an hour limit on the avenue reduced and Saturday's mishap is reported to have made residents more insistent.

Deputy chief Pearson said he

Geoffrey sent to the URCM.

The committee will ask council Thursday to send a resolution containing, such a proposal to the annual meeting of the Union of B.C. Municipalities. The meeting will be in Vancouver Dec. 9 to 11.

The committee also decided yesterday to have the city engineer gather all the information on the operation of Vancouver's car-testing station.

A letter from the city police commission asked that serious consideration be given to establishment of a testing station in Victoria.

City manager C. C. Wyatt suggested that the provincial government should be asked to establish testing stations, and city engineer James Garnett noted that "the majority of jalopies on the streets are not city-owned; they're from the outside municipalities."

Ruins 'Grand Slam' Bid

Rosewall Bests Hoad Easily
In Great Display of Tennis

The world's best amateur tennis player is either little Ken Rosewall or slugging Lew Hoad but as far as America's Davis Cup hopes are concerned what's the difference?

They're both Australians and as Rosewall said after whipping

Hoad 6-1, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3 in the fourth round of the U.S. championships

"It looks like we're at least a better than 50-50 to keep the cup doesn't it?"

FOUR-SET VICTORY

That's the understatement of and thwarted his countryman's bid for a grand slam of the Australian, French Wimbledon

and U.S. crowns 15-62-63-63

who carried Rosewall to five sets in the quarter-finals, al ready has indicated he won't

Victoria's chances of having a commercial hockey league this season appear slim at the moment, Vancouver Island Amateur Hockey Association president Doug Fletcher said yesterday.

Fletcher, head of last year's league, said the association is open to the teams Nanaimo has expressed willingness to host teams each Saturday night in an inter-city league.

The clubs considered are Van ancouver, Nanaimo, the Clippers and the Seals. A league would be played on Saturdays, but the association is not yet ready to pass a resolution to start a league.

Fletcher is calling a meeting

this week to discuss the association's future. A league involving only one club, presumably the

Clippers, is also being considered.

It is also unlikely that there will be a commercial league of any kind operating in Victoria this season.

SPONSORS RELUCTANT

Decision to disband the

VIHL was made Sunday at a meeting of the Pacific Coast

Amateur Hockey Association.

Nanaimo, Nanaimo Clippers

champions of the league the last two years, have decided to pull out in favor of a proposed inter-city league.

The sponsors of the two city teams, Drake Hotel and the Clippers, are apparently reluctant to sponsor a league that does as poorly as the VIHL did last season.

They, as the only organiza tion willing to sponsor a league, will only do so if it is profitable.

Lever Brothers' new

"ALL DAY" DEODORANT

The big news is out! The deodorant that science has tried for years to perfect is here! It's Lever Brothers' new "ALL DAY" Deodorant — a new deodorant that keeps its full effectiveness all day and longer — keeps you fresh and free of perspiration odour.

No Deodorant-Fade!

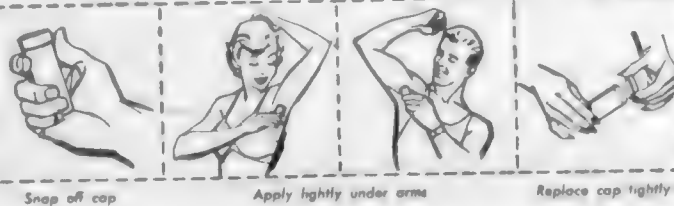

A key ingredient in "ALL DAY" Deodorant completely eliminates chances of DEODORANT FADE. Many creams and liquids start to lose their power soon after application. "ALL DAY" Deodorant, however, retains 94.4% effectiveness after the total eighth hour — 94.4% effectiveness against perspiration odour, even after 24 hours!

Handy, easy to use SWIVEL STICK leaves no messy, sticky fingers

The ideal way to apply a deodorant — just like a lip stick. Turn "ALL DAY" SWIVEL STICK at the base and apply — it dries instantly. Your fingers never touch the deodorant — there are no creams to rub in, no liquid to run down your arms — and there's never any wasted — you apply exactly the right amount every time. So handy, too — carry it right in your purse or pocket. "ALL DAY" will not become soft or messy — it retains the right degree of firmness in all weather — under all conditions.

EXCLUSIVE 2-WAY FORMULA MAKES "ALL DAY" GENTLE ENOUGH FOR WOMEN YET ACTIVE ENOUGH FOR MEN

Hexachlorophene
Here is the deodorant compound that does double duty. Regularly applied, it fully eliminates undesirable body odour. Also, Hexachlorophene's antiseptic qualities reduce harmful skin bacteria that often cause annoying skin conditions.

Lanolin
Famous Lanolin, Nature's own skin ingredient for preventing annoying skin dryness, nourishes your skin, prevents "Deodorant Irritation" — makes "All Day" gentle enough for women yet active enough for men!

No heady, perfumed aroma
"ALL DAY" Deodorant has a refreshingly neutral fragrance — just the way men and women prefer a deodorant.

Approved by the Lux Washability Bureau

"ALL DAY" is unconditionally guaranteed not to stain or mark even the most fragile fabrics including silk, nylon, or filmy chiffons.

Duff Finds Carvings

Ancient Race On Islands?

Was there a unique civilization inhabiting the Gulf Islands 2,500 years ago?

That question arose from evidence of a people of unknown origin.

Proter Islands by Western Gulf provincial museum anthropologist.

Ancient, weirdly carved stones differing from those of prehistoric Indians were found by Mr. Duff on an archaeological survey of the islands.

The stones pose an archaeological mystery in Canada and the United States. Who were these people? Where did they come from? How did they live?

Illustrations of the carvings are being sent to museums across Canada and the United States by Dr. Clifford Gifford, director of the provincial museum.

"We hope by publicizing the artifacts that someone may be able to throw some light on the origin of these people," he said.

So far, no one has been able to give an answer.

Further examination of some of the stones where carvings were found is planned by Mr. Duff and museum staff.

Some of the carvings are of human figures and some of the stones are of human figures.

Water Rate Increase Called Discrimination

View Royal Residents Make Formal Protest

Indignant View Royal residents formally protested last night against "discrimination" by Greater Victoria Water Board.

The protest meeting was called following an announcement two weeks ago of a change in rates increasing for View Royal residents by as much as 40 per cent.

View Royal Community Association spearheads the campaign for reconsideration of the water board's decision.

A strong letter of protest is to be forwarded to the B.C. Public Utilities Commission in an attempt to get the commission to refuse permission for the rate increase.

Union Planning Set for Sept. 30

Campaign of petitions and public meetings among business people and industrial workers for the formation of a union for View Royal and Glen Lake will be followed by a meeting of business and labor representatives of the community later this month.

Arthur McIntyre, chairman, announced last night that the meeting will be held in the town hall, Sept. 30.

mission to refuse permission for the rate increase.

The water commission desires to charge View Royal a higher rate than Victoria. This is discrimination against one area in favor of another and as such should not be permitted.

Said S. J. Clarke speaking to the meeting: "A delegation of members—A. E. Bessie, Leslie Fletcher and S. J. Clarke—will appear before the PUC Wednesday morning."

It will put questions to the water board today asking on what grounds the increases are justified.

W. Maude Moore, president of the community association, said after the meeting: "A lot of people do not realize the seriousness of this situation. They must understand that they are being discriminated against."

He said the board's decision to charge View Royal a higher rate than Victoria is a "discrimination" and that it is "unjust and unfair."

Tourist Total Far Exceeds Last Year's

Up to the end of August Victoria and Sidney together showed a notable increase in the business of tourism this year over last.

Canadian customs figures show 77,440 cars and 240,470 passengers entering the two ports since August 11, 1955. This is a 10 per cent increase over last year's figures for the same period.

During August alone, customs handled 30,162 cars, carrying 98,000 passengers.

Cars from the United States made up more than two-thirds of the totals.

Junior Chamber of Commerce "Invitational" meeting of all candidates of all parties in the provincial election campaign is scheduled for Thursday — not Wednesday as previously announced — in Central Junior high school, at 8 p.m.

All candidates have accepted the Junior Chamber invitation.

Victoria's first mayor, C. C. West, was elected national president of the Institute of Public Administration of Canada at the weekend in Vancouver.

The institute's annual conference, which opened in Vancouver Friday afternoon to conclude its sessions.

Scientists To Meet

Nearly 30 scientists gathered at the Pacific Naval Laboratory in Esquimalt Thursday and Friday to discuss atmosphere and ocean turbulence.

The group will discuss various topics from the defense research board's staffed experts.

Fall Fair Attendance Breaks All Records

PORT ALBERNI—Bill Vogkin, drawing grand finale of the succulent fair, took place at mid-night Saturday.

Vogkin won the big prize at Alberni fair—fall fair—when the fair board president's trophy for the most points by a junior exhibitor was presented to Ken Stephens.

'My Fair Lady' Show Inspires Fall Fashions

When Cecil Beaton, noted English photographer, designer, designed the costumes for the Broadway musical comedy hit, "My Fair Lady," he also set the theme which practically every New York costume designer has adopted for this fall.

Gwen Cowley, Star Weekly fashion editor, who recently visited New York, describes this "Edwardian era touch" in this week's issue as the latest word in femininity and sheer poetry in colors.

The Star Weekly is everybody's dish. It has interest and entertainment for all ages. Special articles on current topics and people in the news—pictures from all the world. Two pages of cooking suggestions and recipes. New fashions illustrated. Twenty pages of colored comics and a complete novel.

Immigrants' 'Boys Town' Step Closer

Proposed "boys' town" at the former Fairbridge farm near Duncan came a step closer yesterday with announcement that the matter is under consideration in London, England.

Col. R. B. Longbridge, chairman of a provincial Legion committee which suggested the project, said the Fairbridge representative-in-Canada will recommend the Fairbridge foundation in London that the suggestion be accepted.

If it is, the committee will draw-up plans for presentation to a Legion convention next spring. Col. Longbridge said the project would start with "probably three or four cottages."

Fairbridge farms scheme is for the training of young immigrants.

TOFINO—A three-year-old Indian boy, Adam Jack, has been flown to Vancouver for possible emergency surgery.

$2,500,000 Job Won

NANAIMO—The firm of D. Robinson Construction Ltd. has been awarded a $2,500,000 contract for construction of the new St. Mary's Hospital in New Westminster.

Work starts immediately.

PORT ALBERNI—Alberni Valley Chapter of the Registered Nurses' Association has announced that the annual bursary awarded to a graduate of Alberni District High School going into training for the nursing profession will go to Betty Riley.

Miss Riley, who graduated in June, has already started her training in St. Paul's Hospital.

LADYSMITH—Booklets listing classes for the Ladysmith fall fair to be held Sept. 19 and 20 will be ready in a few days.

Thomas Bartram, fair board chairman, said yesterday the cattle class has been dropped.

There will be classes for fruits, vegetables, field produce, flowers, women's work, domestic science, girls 17 and under, natural history, schools, honey, dairy products, boys' and girls' garden contest and boys' and girls' calf club competition, however.

Entry registration office will be open from 2 to 4 p.m. tomorrow in the civil defence building behind the post office. All exhibits must be in the Agricultural hall by 9 p.m. Sept. 18.

LADYSMITH—Women's auxiliary to Ladysmith General Hospital has resumed meetings after summer recess and has heard a report on the B.C. Hospitals' Association June convention by president Mrs. Joseph Grouhel, Jr.

Mrs. John Luscombe, treasurer, reported a bank balance of $1,180. The auxiliary is furnishing the children's ward in the new hospital at Ladysmith.

Mrs. L. A. Long Dies at 63

DUNCAN—Mrs. Louis Ada Long, wife of W. J. Long, former chairman of the Cowichan school board, died in King's Daughters' Hospital Saturday, aged 63.

Born in Lowestoft, England, she had resided in Duncan for the last 18 years. She first came to Canada in 1911.

Dual Purpose

Both coffee and tea-lovers will appreciate this combination displayed at Leppig's fair, featuring a coffee percolator on top of tea-kettle-spout. More than 7,000 exhibitors from 30 nations offer their products at the fair in the Soviet zone of Germany. (CPC).

Insults Prove Costly

NANAIMO—If James Dennis Williams, an 18-year-old Vancouver driver, hadn't taken time out to shout obscenities at a Salvation Army group, he might have saved himself $150.

But his shouted observations led Army officers to take his car's licence number and report it to RCMP.

It was not long before police checked young Williams, particularly regarding his licence to drive.

"You have no sympathy from me... Shouting at Salvation Army men the way you did!" observed Magistrate Lionel Beaver-Fotts.

He penalized Williams $150 for driving while his licence was under suspension.

IRON CURTAIN CRASHER

We confess a sneaking respect for one resourceful gentleman who fooled the Germans—albeit by morally dubious means. Seems he would load his hollow aluminum artificial leg with candy, coffee and nylon in West Berlin, then whisk over the border into East Berlin in his motorized wheel chair. He made a neat profit—until the border guards ultimately caught up with him.

More and more businesses—from artificial limbs to shipbuilding—similarly find aluminum a valuable aid to sales and profits. Further major expansion of Alcan's smelters in both Quebec and B.C. is aimed to satisfy the continued increasing demand for the light metal.

Mill Worker Badly Gashed

CAMPBELL RIVER—A 24-year-old worker at new Kraft mill of the Elk Falls Company, at Duncan Bay near here, was badly gashed Sunday when his leg was caught in a screw-type conveyor.

Eugene Bialek, who lives at Campbell River, is in satisfactory condition.

Boys Land Hefty Tyees To Take Derby Awards

PORT ALBERNI—A 39½ sportsmen receiving a merchant-pound salmon won the Port Alberni Junior Tye Club derby for Michael Reimer, 13, Sunday. He was awarded the Knights of Pythias trophy and a bicycle.

Alan Hebertson, 8, came second, weighing in a 32-pounder. The Recca, Riley Memorial trophy was won by Bill Lecky for the biggest tye of the season, a 42-pound, nine-ounce fish brought in during the first week of the season.

Other weekly prize-winners were Robert Simpson, Larry Wenezenki and J. Joseph.

On derby day, 12 fish were weighed in with the following
